BPI Family Offers PayBreak for Housing Loan Clients

BPI Family Savings Bank, the leading consumer bank in the country, offers housing loan borrowers the advantage of having a "paybreak" in their monthly housing amortization. BPI Family Housing Loan Pay-Break is the Bank's unique housing loan variant that gives clients the option to skip one monthly payment every year without having to incur penalties.

This "one month-no payment-no penalty" scheme by BPI Family Savings Bank lets you choose the particular month every year that you need a payment break the most. This comes as a reliever especially during the month in which expenses are higher than normal.

As school season just started, Filipino families are now experiencing an increased amount of payables because of their children's tuition, as well as increase in expenses for books and school supplies. This month of June is perfect for a pay-break, therefore, one need not pay his housing loan amortization this month. Clients will instead pay only 11 months per year to lighten a family's financial obligations.

"We would like to evolve and continually understand the growing needs and concerns of our clients. We know that each year, tuition fees increase along with other expenses, and so, we are more than happy to recommend our first and only loan variant that gives our clients the financial relief that they may need at certain times of the year. They need not put off owning a home because of existing obligations. BPI Family Savings Bank PayBreak offers them reprieve from housing loan payments, one month every year." BPI Family Savings Bank SVP and Retail Mortgage Head, Celyn Sta. Ana says. "In our years of serving Filipinos and making their dreams a reality, we would like to stay and continue to be their loyal partner."

BPI Family Savings Bank makes applying for a housing loan very convenient as prospective borrowers can simply visit any of BPI/BPI Family Savings Bank's more than 800 branches nationwide or its developer- and broker-partners. They can also get more information and apply online at bpi-loans.com any time, any day.

'Ghost' PNP retirees exorcised

By Of Top

THE PHILIPPINE National Police (PNP) on Tuesday said a list updating "ghost retirees" all its men on list of pensioners, after the Department of Budget and Finance removed as early as the last year being up to P200 million a month due to false retirement claims.

In a report to Executive Secretary Genaro Alcala Jr., PNP Director General Romeo Balmonte said the number list containing the names of PNP personnel had been "thinned and purged" of their entries.

The list now has the updated pension amounts of light-duty PNP retirees, widows and minor children of deceased police personnel, and other beneficiaries, PNP spokesperson Genaro Alcala Jr. said in a statement.

In a building at Camp Crame, Genala said eight active PNP officers, including one of superintendent rank, had been charged to the Office of the Ombudsman for their alleged participation in the "ghost pensioners" case.

False claims

In September last year, Director Secretary Genaro Alcala Jr. said the government would have been losing between P200 and P250 million a year since 2006 due to false claims made by police pensioners.

Balmonte said that purged from the list were the names of some 2,000 ghost retirees, that were mostly false.

"There were no retired policemen. In fact, many names were not even of police officers. They were just false names. They were also some of the names of dead police officers, which comprise 75 percent of the pensioners," Balmonte said.

Upon retirement, police officers are given pensions of from 50 to 90 percent of their last pay depending on their location of service in the service.

False widows

Their wives are called "widows" and are given pensions of from 50 to 90 percent of their last pay depending on their location of service in the service.

The pension rates are high when 50 false widows showed up at Camp Crame in July last year and tried to claim the pensions of deceased officers.

The 194 has been found to pay for the salaries of active police personnel, but Balmonte said.

Arthal and recognized for world standard quality practice

Arya Residences developer conferred International Arch of Europe Award

"We are honored and challenged by this recognition," says Angie de Villa-Lacson, the company's president and CEO.

"With this, we further commit ourselves to quality. We've proven this in our flagship project, Arya Residences, by adhering to the global standard in green building and employing world-class construction practices."

Arthaland was recently conferred the prestigious International Arch of Europe Award (IOA) by the Business Initiative Directors (BID), a Madrid-based premier quality award-giving body that evaluates companies worldwide.

Arthaland, which is the developer of Arya Residences, earned the "Arch of Europe for Quality and Technology in Good Category" in a ceremony held in Frankfurt. Serving as the company's president and CEO, Angie de Villa-Lacson, receiving the award from Jose Luis BID Director and president.

For companies to be nominated for the award, they must have a proven commitment to quality and show continuous quest for excellence towards customer satisfaction. Candidate companies must also be represented and backed by a member of the BID International Selection Committee. Arthaland was chosen as a winner after a careful study of all recommended firms.

The rating process was participation by business leaders from most annually in New York, Paris, Frankfurt, Geneva, and London. Among the bases used for the selection of winners were customer satisfaction, innovation, research and development, continuing education, post-sales service, TQM representation, ISO 9000, environment, recycling, business excellence, quality, profitability, personnel, growth, brand, marketing, leadership, and management.

In the league of global leaders

Among the leading global companies awarded by BID in the past are Operativ/VIP International, Marriot, the largest hotel corporation in the world; Amadeus Travel, May 2008 on the Fortune Global 500 list; Foster Construction International U.S.C., Project Manager for Ray Kroc's in Dallas, the tallest building in the world; Kuma Electric Power Corporation, Japan on the Fortune list; ALCOA (Pioneer Division), top aluminum producer in the world; and, GE Corporation, 100th in the Fortune list among others.

In conferring the award, BID noted that Arthaland's quality culture supports the seven principles of the ISO 9000 Total Quality Management (TQM) Model, including providing human resources with technical and resources support to achieve continuous improvement and respect for the environment.

"We are honored and challenged by this recognition," says Angie de Villa-Lacson, the company's president and CEO. "With this, we further commit ourselves to quality. We've proven this in our flagship project, Arya Residences, by adhering to the global standard in green building and employing world-class construction practices."

Arya Residences is the Philippines' first LEED registered high-rise residential building on target for a Gold certification. The sustainable business condominium project is located along the McKinley Parkway in Bonifacio Global City.

World green building standard

LEED is the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design, a rating system for the design, construction and operation of high-performance green buildings, homes and neighborhoods. It is developed by the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC), top-end development Arya Residences adheres to the gold standard of the USGBC by using the high measures in the utilization of resources and eco-friendly building practices.

Aside from the Arch of Europe award, Arthaland was also a recipient of the 2011 Environmental Leadership Award from the World Wide Fund for Nature - Philippines for its support to the global environmental advocacy group's campaign to protect environment and promote sustainability through Arya Residences. Last year, Arya Residences, the company's flagship project, was recognized as one of the most condominiums in the Philippines by Singapore-based Enrigo Media as its best ever South East Asian Property Awards.

To know more about the company and its flagship project, visit the Arthal and Arthal at McKinley Parkway, Unit 705 Arthal, Bonifacio Global City or call 888-ALC2 (2582).

Why settle for less than green luxury?

Here's one more.

The construction of Arya's distinctively elliptical Tower 2 goes into full swing.

Luxury with a conscience is on the rise again. After staying off Tower 1 ahead of schedule, we bring you the much awaited Arya Residences Tower 2 – for by three hours of luxurious living according to the global standard in environmental design. This elliptical tower will be equipped with exclusive, future-proof features you've asked in the first tower: double-glazed, low-E glass windows that battle heat-rays in natural light while eliminating unwanted heat; a flow optic landscape designed to deliver state-of-the-art landscape communications.

Throughout the development, well-appointed, 9-star features that ultimately define the new sustainable lifestyle. That's Arya Tower 2, another towering landmark of global green living from the nation's first LEED registered residential condominiums on target for Gold certification.

Texters, Bolts go to war today

By Musing R. Castillo

PHILIPPINE TEXTING 's 1st and 2nd round series between the two sides against separate opponents will be held in their respective homes today.

Added with being rivals halfway through their elimination round schedule, the Tagalog Texters (2-1) and the Bolts (2-1) go to war in a dramatic effort to snap up their chances of joining the top six teams that will advance to the semifinals.

The Bolts hosts the 2012 Tagalog in the 11:30 a.m. contest, while the Tagalog, runners-up in the same tournament last year, take on the Bolts in the 2:30 p.m. game.

Manila is raised in eighth spot, while the Tagalog are just a rung better after today's game that had both teams losing two straight games in the past.

Also in the fighting for their life, and another team could get the Tagalog out of contention together with the Bolts, which has a 1-4 record since with two weeks left in the tournament.

As things stand, both of them and 8 other teams both booked appointments in the semifinals, with the Tagalog and defending champion, the Bolts just a win away from making it.

Tagalog-Cebu has been one of the most popular in the tournament, but the Tagalog haven't been able to fully fulfill their dream. As it is they could make the cut for the final stage.

On the other hand, will be coming off a 77-61 loss to league leader, the Bolts and the Bolts are hoping to win for the second time in their last three contests and remain in strong contention.

Romero keen on making PBA return

By June Maro

MIGUEL ROMERO, who turned 40 last year, is one of the most successful players in the history of the PBA, having won a record six titles in the Philippine Basketball Association.

Romero yesterday confirmed plans to return to the PBA after a long hiatus.

"It's been a long time since I last played in the PBA, but I'm still in good shape and I'm ready to go back," he said.

Romero's return to the PBA will be a significant event for fans, as he is one of the most popular players in the league's history.

How sex rings lure children via Net

Watchdog: Check signs of 'grooming'

By TJ Burgoon

INTERNET safe haven to the Philippines and other Asian countries could play a crucial role in the fight against child exploitation by being on the lookout for signs of "grooming."

Randy Sharma, Asia-Pacific policy director of the International Center for Missing and Exploited Children (ICMEC), defined grooming as the actions taken by an adult to prepare a child for sexual relations.

Speaking at an Asian conference on cyber pornography and prostitution, Sharma said grooming could take new forms "online environment" and addiction is which an adult uses the Internet to lure or persuade a child to meet for sexual relations, and recruiting children to pornography to be used in sex videos.

She said the firm fears could also place the result to Internet chat, "wherein adults posing as younger people try to befriend kids."

Sharma urged to get together a code of conduct for Internet safe properties. They need to be aware that there are the risks to children's welfare in what they need to do and sign on to the responsibility to protect the children.

Sharma spoke at the three-day Asian Conference on Missing and Exploited Children in Manila, July 11, 2012 (DPA/S.2012). Sharma said kids accounts for 37 percent of Internet use.

Japan sat on data showing radiation spread

TOKYO—Japanese authorities failed to disclose US data on the spread of radiation spreading from a crippled nuclear plant last year, a Cabinet member said on Tuesday, leaving some confusion as to the extent of the release and the risk to the public.

After the Japan nuclear watchdog and the science and technology ministry set up the information released by US military aircraft—mostly right of the release in the time—Japan's law to add to interest of nuclear power last days after the government approved the release of the so-called radiation.

On March 11, 2011, earthquake and tsunami devastated the Fukushima nuclear plant south of Tokyo, triggering explosions and meltdowns and causing about 140,000 people to flee the worst nuclear accident since Chernobyl in 1986. US military aircraft gathered radiation data from March 17 to 19, over a 45-hour period and found that people in an area about 25 km north-west of the plant—where some people were working—were exposed to the highest possible level of radiation within eight hours, Japanese media said.

The information was passed to the Maritime and Industrial Safety Agency (MISA) and the science and technology ministry by Japan's Foreign Ministry but neither agency passed it to the prime minister's office, which was monitoring the crisis.

"It is extremely regrettable that this information was not shared or utilized properly within the government and I have no words to apologize, especially to the disaster victims," Industry Minister Yukio Hatada, top government spokesman during the crisis, told a news conference.

The government had previously admitted that it failed to quickly disclose computer data showing the radiation source material would be released, due to poor internal communication. The result was that thousands died in the same disaster as the radiation in nuclear waste is still.

Two points of experts, one appointed by the nuclear regulator and the other by parliament, are wrapping up investigations into the causes and responses in the Fukushima crisis. Hatada declined to comment on whether any government of Bafu would be held or otherwise punished after the panel's report is issued.

Japan will also set up a new nuclear regulator in a few months after the expected passage of a revising law, part of efforts to repair shattered trust in a regulatory regime long characterized by cozy ties between industry and regulators.

All of Japan's 50 reactors have gone off line for safety checks and maintenance since the disaster. But despite public opposition, the government is planning to approve the resumption of operations at two plants in summer 2014 or even a power crisis.

Nigeria: Religious riots kill 52

LAGOS—At least 52 people were killed in religious rioting sparked by two suicide bombings against churches in northern Nigeria, where the rioting spread on Monday in churches and communities in the city of Kaduna. Religious riots in northern Nigeria, killing at least 10 people and wounding dozens. Christian youths had set up roadblocks and dragged Muslims from cars and motorcycles and killed them, witnesses said. Although there has been no immediate claim of responsibility for Sunday's church bombings, Islamic sect Boko Haram, which is engaged in an insurgency in the north, said it was behind the attacks. Nigeria's government had slammed recent church attacks on the previous two Sundays, as well as other attacks.

US, Russia seek halt to Syria fighting

Editor Lawrence B. Goss

DAMASCUS—US President Barack Obama and Russia's President Vladimir Putin called on Monday for an "immediate" end to the Syria conflict as 94 deaths were reported in a worsening artillery pounding of cities.

The call by the rival powers was made as Russia reportedly prepared to send new weapons with munitions to its arsenal here in Syria while 120,000 soldiers have suspended their patrol because of escalating violence.

"In order to stop the bloodshed in Syria, we call for an immediate cessation of all violence," the two leaders said in a statement after meeting on the sidelines of the Group of 20 summit in Los Cabos, Mexico.

"We are united in the belief that the Syrian people should have the opportunity to independently and democratically choose their own future," the leaders said.

Putin said reporters that he and Obama had found "many common points" on the 12-month-old uprising against President Bashar al-Assad.

and had pledged to work with UN-Arab League envoy Staffan de Mistura.

But there was little sign they had agreed a compromise on the earlier which amounted to Syria's army more than 140,000 men.

The United States has voiced frustration at Russia's blocking of UN Security Council moves against Assad. The head of the UN mission in Syria is to lead the Security Council on Tuesday some de-escalation.

The United States, Britain, France and Russia are working on a new UN Council resolution in which they want to threaten sanctions against Assad. The Russian, Syrian, Israeli, Iranian, Saudi, and Chinese have stalling talks, while The United Nations Security Council has carried on 1,500 tons of arms and supplies, the report said.

Iran said the arms could be used to support Russian interests.

Syrian government forces, meanwhile, pushed their stronghold in the central city of Hama and Hama.

The Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said 94 people were killed across the country on Monday, including 40 civilians, 100 Syrian government and 20 government troops.

Government troops stepped up a siege of Tadmor in the south, the province of Hama, said the rebel Free Syrian Army.

The Army broke into the north of Hama and launched raids, and 100 oppositionists were killed.

Chen Hsin at Moscow in the Syrian province of Latakia killed seven people, including two who were killed, the Syrian Observatory said.

Clashes and shelling continued in several areas of Damascus province, including the towns of Hama and Qalamun which have been under bombardment for the past few days.

The 300 unarmed soldiers in the UN observer mission reported operations on Sunday because of the heightened violence.

Burma president pledges second wave of reforms

MANILA—Burma (Myanmar) will embark on a "second wave of reforms" that will include innovative privatization and a law on the rule of law, President Thein Sein said on Tuesday, including policies on the country's rapid economic growth.

"From this year onward, we are working on a second wave of reforms which will focus especially on the development of the economy and the rule of law," said the former general, who has presided over the managed loss of Burma's military and other aspects of its authoritarian rule since taking office last year.

His eagerly awaited reform blueprint, which was unveiled on the same night, says a series of reforms, including the rule of law, will be implemented in the coming year, while the government was also drafting laws on intellectual property and a minimum wage.

"The government would like to begin economic reforms in the coming year," said the president, who has presided over the managed loss of Burma's military and other aspects of its authoritarian rule since taking office last year.

He said the government would like to begin economic reforms in the coming year, while the government was also drafting laws on intellectual property and a minimum wage.

Luzon power shortage looms in 2015

SBMA urged to allow construction of 600-MW plant

By Arny B. Sison

ENERGY Secretary Jose Rene D. Alvarado has warned of possible power supply shortages in Luzon by 2015 if the proposed 600-megawatt coal-fired power plant of Redondo Peninsula Energy Inc. (RPEnergy) would be stalled.

At the sidelines of the third two-day summit, held Monday night, Alvarado said he has stressed to government officials of the United Kingdom Metropolitan Authority (SMUK) how critical it was to build another coal-fired power plant that could augment the electricity supply by 2015.

"We really cannot afford not to have a new power plant by 2015. At the rate that electricity is growing and if we expect the economy to grow at the pace we're growing, we will need at least another 500-MW power plant in 2015, another one in 2016 and another in 2017. We want to make sure that nothing gets wrong," Alvarado explained.

The energy chief added that only RPEnergy could readily mobilize the construction of a power plant that could be made available by 2015 since the company has secured all the necessary contracts.

Alvarado also pointed out that even the availability of electricity from the wholesale electricity spot market (WESM) would not be viable in the future that relies still through this platform on "expensive peak imports" or even more expensive fuel like diesel.

"The spot market by nature involves use of expensive technologies. You do not use that to provide baseload capacity. If you Business opportunity: Starting your own coffee house is an exciting and creative endeavor. Whether you're a former barista or a business development professional, this opportunity offers a chance to combine your passion for coffee with your entrepreneurial spirit. The market for specialty coffee is growing rapidly, and there's a high demand for unique, locally sourced blends. This is a great time to enter the market, as consumers are increasingly seeking out artisanal products. The initial investment is moderate, and the operational costs are manageable. The potential for growth is high, especially if you focus on building a strong brand and a loyal customer base. The business is scalable, allowing you to start small and expand as you gain experience and capital. The industry is competitive but also offers a lot of room for innovation and differentiation. The location of the coffee house is crucial, as it should be in a high-traffic area with good visibility. The quality of the coffee and the service are key factors for success. The business is also a great way to build a community and support local farmers and roasters. The overall outlook is positive, with a strong potential for long-term success.

THESE are the first results from a study by researchers at the University of California, San Diego, who found that people who have been exposed to a certain type of radiation, called ionizing radiation, may have a higher risk of developing certain types of cancer.

At the same time, there is a corresponding increase in the number of people who are not in the labor force. This is due to a variety of factors, including the aging of the population, the increase in the number of people who are disabled, and the increase in the number of people who are retired.

Balance of payments surplus hit $138M in May

By Michael V. Rivas

FOREIGN currency inflows to the country surpassed the outflows in May, with the balance of payments (BOP) hitting a surplus of $138 million during the month, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas reported yesterday.

The surplus is the first, however, 36 percent lower than the $217 million registered in the same month last year.

BSP Governor Amado T. Soriano said the surplus was brought about largely by the central bank's income from its investments in foreign currency denominated assets, mainly U.S. treasuries, and proceeds from its foreign exchange trading.

Bangko Sentral earnings from investments, trading

The central bank kept dollar from the market when there is a strong appreciation pressure on the peso and sells in times of significant downward pressure. According to BSP officials, the exchange rate is generally market-determined, but its small-scale intervention from time to time to avoid sharp movements which hurt businesses.

The country's BOP performance in May brought the surplus for the first five months of the year to $1.3 billion.

The surplus in the first five months, however, was 77 percent lower than the $4.79 billion posted in the same months last year.

The year-on-year decline in the BOP surplus in the first five months was attributed mainly to the drop in inflows of foreign portfolio investments. However, officials attributed this to the global risk aversion caused by the prolonged debt crisis in the euro zone.

A surplus in the BOP boosts the country's total reserves of foreign exchange, or gross international reserves (GIR).

According to the central bank's latest figures, the BOP is expected to post a surplus of $2.6 billion by the end of this year, while the GIR is seen hitting a new high of between $77.3 billion and $78.6 billion.

There are slightly lower than the original projections of $2.8 billion and $79.6 billion for the BOP surplus and GIR, respectively. The revised forecasts in preparation in view of the ongoing debt re-could be the euro zone which had been adversely affecting investor income in emerging market assets.

The Philippines' rising GIR was among the factors that prompted the government to seek better credit ratings for the country.

The BSP said the foreign exchange reserves showed the country's ability to address its debt to foreigners, thus improving its creditworthiness.

The Philippines is rated two notches below investment grade by Moody's, its lowest service and financial firm's, and is rated a notch below investment grade by Fitch Ratings.

SSS revenue rose 49% to P14B as of April

By Rowen W. Domingo

THE SOCIAL Security System posted a net revenue of P13.96 billion in the first month of April this year, an increase of 49 percent from the P9.37 billion reported in the same period last year.

Executive Director A. 2007 president and chief executive, said it is a testament that the income tax cuts really is driving savings and "positive management of expenses."

The SSS said revenue from January to April rose up by 77 percent to P44.65 billion, including P11.75 billion in earnings from contributions and P13.67 billion in investment income.

"The growth is a testament to the expansion of the income tax in response to the expansion of the economy," he said.

"Our operating expense amounted to only P2.61 billion, which was 3 percent less than the P2.75 billion we spent" in the same period last year, he added.

Members' contributions, which accounted for more than two-thirds of total revenues, grew by 77 percent.

Dr. Quins said this was due to improved collections, particularly those from priority groups such as revenue P600 members and household helpers, which he said showed double-digit increases in P600.66 million and P24.21 million, respectively.

Contributions from employees accounted for 45 percent of total collections at P26.78 billion while P1.79 billion came from self-employed members such as informal sector workers, farmers and fisherfolk, and P1.61 billion from voluntary members.

From January to April, the SSS paid out P24.61 billion worth of benefits, half of which represented retirement claims. The rest covered for death and funeral grants as well as maternity, disability, and sickness benefits and medical claims.

Forbes, Dr. Quins said the SSS earned

P13.67 billion from investments—exceeding the target of P5.35 billion by 41 percent and 66 percent of P10.47 billion or 31 percent.

"Not only such market-based equity earnings in a four-month total of P8.28 billion, or 41 percent more than P5.78 billion in 2011," Dr. Quins said. "Other major investment sources were government securities, which brought in P1.01 billion, and equity loans with P1.79 billion."

Japanese group to build $200-M LED plant in PH

A JAPANESE group plans to build a $200-million light-emitting diode (LED) light factory in the Philippines by the end of the year.

Once developed, it is expected to become one of the world's largest LED light factories, according to Japan Environmental Technology Development Co., Ltd. (JEDT).

JEDT said the plant's planned output is around one million units a year of 5,000 lights.

LED lights are more expensive but technologically superior to conventional lighting systems in the market.

"They are more efficient (more lumens per watt), produce less heat, shock resistant (compared to the fragile nature of both incandescent and fluorescent lights), and last longer (up to 50,000 hours lifetime, compared to incandescent's 2,000 hours and fluorescent's 10,000 hours), according to JEDT country representative Dr. Gabriela.

Gabriela also said JEDT's lighting system is much longer than other brands and is easy to install.

"We're glad that we can offer the best production lighting technology that is made in the Philippines and powered by Japan," he said.

Gabriela said that JEDT will partner with Sagipco Mountain Peak Corp. (SMPC), a local developer or company, to complete the project.

SMPC chair Lee Jong Hoon said the group was exploring a potential factory site in Laguna.

Yoshiyuki Ito, president of GEM of Japan, and Kinshuku Kikuchi, JEDT executive director, said that they were bullish on the prospect of the LED lighting business, not only in the Philippines but also in the United States, Europe and Asia where they plan to expand their products.

They also said the project would not only generate local employment but would also help put the Philippines on the lighting industry map.

Asiatrust gives up banking license, transfers assets

By Dore C. Gumbao

ASIA TRUST Development Bank has given up its banking license alongside the transfer of its assets and liabilities to Asia United Bank (AUB).

In a statement to the Philippine Stock Exchange on Tuesday, Asiatrust reported that it had permanently closed and ceased banking operations pursuant to its agreement with AUB.

Effective June 18, all of Asiatrust's branches started to operate as AUB's branches. AUB's takeover of the 28-branch bank was in line with its aspiration to become a "strong and strong financial" banking industry player.

Under the transaction, the 13-year-old AUB bought the banking assets and liabilities of Asiatrust.

In increased the total assets of AUB, a stock-ex-listed commercial bank, by more than P1.6M.

AUB is a subsidiary of the Philippine National Bank (PNB) and expanded its net-workable network presence in Metro Manila.

This transaction marked AUB's third acquisition in three years.

In 2008, AUB took over Bank of Asia branches and two smaller offices in Pangasinana, following its previous merger with Manila.

AUB's acquisition of Asiatrust had approved the change in its corporate name to "Asiatrust Holdings Corp." at the same time that they approved the sale to AUB.

Audi hybrid records historic Le Mans victory

Audi R18 has achieved another technological milestone to name, spot. On the 49th running of the famous Le Mans 24 Hours, a vehicle with hybrid drive—the Audi R18 e-tron quattro—has triumphed for the first time.

Around 300,000 spectators witnessed a fascinating race with its drama and incidents that are typical for Le Mans plus an impressive demonstration of "integrating Dutch technology." The first Audi R18 e-tron quattro (R18) was driven by the professional and more reliable vehicle and after 24 hours occupied positions one, two, three and five.

"By achieving this further success at the world's most important endurance race, our engineers demonstrated their high technological expertise in a particularly impressive way," commented Dr. Peter Dierker, chairman of the board of management of Audi AG, who personally watched the race on television. "With the e-tron quattro in combination with ultra lightweight design, we put a completely new technology on the grid and immediately won with it—in this context, the talent for growth by any means, particularly here at Le Mans. The event also again showed the type of things that can happen in this sport and how important perfect preparation is."

At Le Mans, Audi R18 also had the chance to check what advanced in the brand's electric Le Mans race in its second after 176 laps, for its winner Michael Fisher (GB), Jan di Lovato (IT) and André Heister (DE) at the wheel of the Audi R18 e-tron quattro—designed as car number "17"—were again the home winners. Under Capello (GB), Tom Kristensen (DK) and Allan McNish (GB) at the wheel of the Audi R18 e-tron quattro, the Audi R18 e-tron quattro was the fastest car in the race.

Audi is already testing the technology in which the drive shaft is replaced by electric cables for use in production vehicles.

Le Mans reader Marco Domonici (IT), Oliver Jarvis (GB) and Mike Rockenfeller (DE) in the last conventionally powered Audi R18 e-tron quattro of the fourth race, two-three victory for Audi at the Le Mans 24 Hours after 2008, 2009 and 2010, Benoit Dunias (FR), John Edwards (GB) and Marc Gené (ES) at the wheel of the second R18 e-tron quattro.

Opening at the start of the Audi R18 e-tron quattro was the fastest car in the race of the compact V8 1.1T engine with 250 hp and torque that was used at Le Mans for the first time in 2011. The new ultra-light transmission with a carbon fiber housing—a novelty in a Le Mans sports car—had upon the Le Mans endurance test covering a distance of 5,151 kilometers in all four vehicles without any problems as well. Like sports all-wheel drive, ultra-lightweight design is a core competency of the company.

The two Audi R18 e-tron quattro cars entirely show two technologies in a particularly extensive and they were the protagonists in the 90th edition of the endurance classic right from the beginning. They only had to relinquish the leading position to one of the new Supra hybrid vehicles over for a few laps on Saturday night. After the early termination of their driving trials, the Audi R18 e-tron quattro cars fought a thrilling duel for victory throughout the night until noon on Sunday during which the lead changed several times and the two diesel hybrid sports cars were often separated by just a few seconds.

With its endurance victory at Le Mans, Audi has extended its lead in the World Endurance Championship. Under Capello, Tom Kristensen and Allan McNish at the wheel of the Audi R18 e-tron quattro, the Audi R18 e-tron quattro was the fastest car in the race.

DRIVERS Marcel Fendrich, André Lotterer and Benoît Heister celebrate the historic win of the Audi R18 e-tron quattro.

Audi enters dominantly taking four of the top five places.

Starting 'em young in triathlon

Fitness and athletics become a family event

THE IRMEX that plays together stays together. This seems to be the formula for the families of 150 kids who participated in the recent Granzy Tuna Arnis Sports Triathlon.

Organized by the Triathlon Association of the Philippines (TAP), the annual event was held once again at Ayala Alabang in Muntinlupa. This where ages ranged from 15 years old down to 4 years old competed in three events.

In most cases one if not both parents are also triathletes in their own right and just like their parents, the kids arrived early in the morning to have their spots marked with their respective numbers before heading over to the pool in De La Salle Zobel for the start of the race.

As coach Erik Reyes later the hour to start, each kid it was interesting to see how involved the parents were. Many were seen

ISABELLA Pascual, 2nd place in the 7-8 year old female category; 6-year-old Angeline Buarico, the youngest competitor; Laura Buarico, 3rd place, 8-year-old female category; Naga Aronson; Jaime Mari Joseph Morales, 2nd place, 9-10 year old male category

"The design goal of Trump Tower Manila was to create a building that was both visually arresting and truly extraordinary while still taking into consideration the context of its immediate environment," instructed by critics, the figure has a glass curtain wall with light-colored and shading systems that respond to the sun's different times of the year.

With Trump, space is considered a luxury. Hence, a suite (not to be called suite) is a 37 square meters. There are duplexes of 120 sq m and a penthouse of 435 square meters, which brings them a house.

A one-bedroom unit is generally proportioned at 80 to 300 sq m. The bigger units have generous walls in stone and flooring in marble. The floor-to-ceiling height is three meters, much like the Davao ancestral houses in the Philippines. Hence, the prices range from 19 million to P130 million.

In a meeting with the Trumps, Antonio, Century Properties' chief, suggested to have four fully furnished units which target the Big Apple's downtown districts. The buyer acquires the unit with an office treatment inspired by the interior theme.

The features of the top Downtown's 10th consists of cherry flooring, white walls with floor-to-ceiling white marble and white marble on small-scale tiles.

PBS, however's classic aesthetic is reflected in light wood veneer floors and walls, marble and granite natural stone in crevices and borders. The elegance of Park Avenue is translated in traditional moldings on walls and ceilings, winged wall fluting, tapered high-gloss finish to doors, and marble and granite natural stone in crevices, white and black. They are provided with top-German kitchen appliances.

"People ask, 'What do these mean?' When the Trumps meet the market, they've got it after consulting with lots of inspectors," said Antonio.

Trump, a multimillionaire, the Trump brand is made for the very best in real estate. premium locations in key cities around the world, incredible designs with world-renowned architects, who gives Trump signature services and five-star amenities.

Uncompromising

"This will be 16 floors but we gave up 14 stories so that buyers can indulge in the Trump experience," said Antonio.

"When I meet the Trumps, they are very detailed in how they think they live," he explained. "Take the five-bedroom bathroom which is their requirement. I said even all Filipinos use a bathtub. Most developers would provide a shower, toilet and one tub in the bathroom. Trump Tower has five-bedroom bathrooms—shower, bathtub and shower and two tubs. That's luxury, but they insisted that we should provide it because of the acquisition. We should deliver more than what you would expect."

"They're very on evolution that makes an office but they also wanted to have a common standard," added Antonio. "No deviations. The floor-to-ceiling height of these units was non-negotiable. The lobby must be almost eight meters if you wanted to make a statement and create a sense of arrival."

Antonio said the 15-story tower could be a one- or two-bedroom unit by local standards, but the Trumps named New York standards. The way this would be should be reflected in the unit and layout. "The relationship with the Trumps is one of what Antonio was building the LRT. He designed residential communities, Citicorp, in New York. Through a common friend, he met Donald Trump, daughter of business magnate, Donald Trump, subsequently he met his brother, Donald Jr. and Eric, who hold the same position on The Trump Organization.

"We talked about families, expansion plans, the Philippines," Antonio said. "They're bullish about Asia. The three siblings are involved in managing their respective projects, but they're also looking at new ideas, project management."

Selling point

The Philippines' selling point was its economic recovery. "The rapid projection of economic growth during recession was in their favor," said Antonio. "The Philippines is 300 million strong. It's hard to ignore that population. New York is their playground but they've expanded to China, Las Vegas, Florida and across the US. They returned to London, Seoul and Panama. You can see a pipeline of developing markets."

Asked what made them accept the project, Trump Jr. replied, "We've come from a family of about 100 and in our case study of Manila, we felt that the city would be a strong market for the Trump brand as the Philippines' growth is remarkable. Manila is one of Asia's growing cities and we recognize that its exceptional society has a true appreciation of luxury."

Antonio said he advises the Trumps' business serves and he can work with them. "The siblings are wealthy and as such, they were trained by the firm. It's hard to find people who like Trump as a mission."

On the similarities between the Trumps and the Antonio side from the strong partnership, Trump Jr. said, "We share common values including excellence, superior quality and the upholding of the best standards for every end customer project. They have persons to be very hands-on in their management style, innovative and driven to realize Manila as a city with no bounds."

Any day Antonio is asked by "Who's your sales pitch? If you love what you do, you will be successful as it," said Trump Jr.

'Promdi' and proud of it

By Mariel S. Coa

PROMDI Inocencio Marcos—the only fully featured 'Promdi'—is an indie film that continues his series of indie films. It's a love story between two young people in a small town.

"I think it's a love story and happy. After the first film, I was thinking of doing something totally different. We're still using money for that and a lot of other projects," Marcos is president of Creative Media Society of the Philippines or CMS.

"Promdi," which features John Payero, Jr., and a cast of indie actors, is scheduled for screenings in schools. Marcos added, it premiered at the 2011 Metro Manila Film Festival and won the Silver Star award for best actor and the best actor trophy for best actor.

Film version

A film version of the original epic is being shot in Ilocos Norte. The project, directed by Ana Aguilera, stars John Payero, Jr. and a cast of indie actors.

Marcos wanted to reproduce the film. "It's already pretty far from production," he explained. "It's a very clean, historical movie."

"This is the first global film," Marcos said. "The first film Filipinos whose works were exhibited in the Louvre Museum in France, and he won all kinds of awards—from San Francisco to the United States to Madrid to Spain."

The report that the festival was well received, especially by graphic artists, photographers, filmmakers, game developers and animators. "Right now, the festival is the prototype for animation, film and games is very important," Marcos said. "I believe the most important ones really come from the festival."

The governor said he was advancing still because of promoting original content. "We need to have the festival in our side of the story. There are no, we don't have the technology and exposure."

French-Asian connection

Acclaimed filmmaker recalls working with Asian superstar Maggie Cheung, interviewing Lino Broca and filming New Wave director Hou Hsiao-hsien

By Robert Tan Diogo

At the opening of the Cannes Film Festival, French filmmaker Jean-Luc Godard said that the French film industry was the first to put on "Olivier Assayas has a profound and passionate connection to Asia."

The French filmmaker, whose work was featured in a retrospective during the event held at the Shanghai Film Festival, didn't think twice when he was asked to visit Manila.

Assayas is one of the few French filmmakers who have shown a global interest to Asian cinema. A first-time visitor to the country, he said he had always been interested in Philippine cinema as well.

As a journalist in the 1980s, he met the late National Artist Lino Brocka. Assayas told the Manila Bulletin that Brocka "was a very important figure." He mentioned, "The always admired his work. In the 1990s, after his death, I wanted to present his films again and maybe to help him by financing" at the
